

Betaine Hydrochloride

It is a source of hydrochloric acid which is a digestive juice. Its primary function is to produce Pepsin, an enzyme which breaks down proteins for proper digestion. It also helps prevent organisms such as bacteria and yeast from growing in the stomach.